, is an optional addon for Clash Royale. If installed, Clash Royale will be unable to connect due to any missing files for its config file.(This mod does not affect your config/config.xml file.)If you like the mod but don't want to use it in your game, you can download the old Clash Royale config folder here : http://cr.leagueoflegends.com/board/showthread.php?t=192789 (Not sure if the config file is really there yet, so don't blame me if it has been installed)If you want to uninstall the Clash Royale addon, simply delete the config folder in Your Documents, and then Open the config folder in Notepad to remove any .ini files from there.You need a recent version of NVidia's NVLite to use Clash Royale.Download NVlite here: http://www.nvidia.com/content/downloads/NVlite.html You'll need the "Cinematic Map Editor" tool, a recent copy of NVladder, and you need BrawlLauncher and vBulletin installed.For any other mods you wish to use, check out : http://www.fallout3nexus.com/downloadsFor over two decades, the University of California has been a national leader in the study and investigation of environmental contamination in the natural gas industry. In the lead-up to the gas crisis and to what has been a comprehensive review of the history of gas production in California – from the beginning of the industry to its current production and impact – UCSF scientists and students have engaged in extensive sampling of and analysis of the natural gas field. Although UCSF's research has been successful in producing valuable information about these areas of gas production, the environmental implications of these findings are a matter of enormous concern, at both federal and public sector levels. As the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) continues to review its findings of whether or not to allow new pipelines of natural gas to supply California with electricity, this UCSF research continues.An open letter about this post with some details about how we have been getting here.
